UK Sponsor

Both Elysium and Ramsay consider innovation to be at the heart of their organisational culture. Clinicians in Elysium and Ramsay cultivate very close links with universities and professional bodies like The Royal College of Psychiatrists both for research and education. This masterclass is part of that organisational culture, and we are therefore proud to support UK clinicians joining the event, alongside our involvement with the faculty. We sincerely hope you enjoy the event, and it makes some contribution to your journey along the pathway to be fully qualified forensic professionals.

About The Event

The University of Bari "Aldo Moro" (Criminology and Forensic Psychiatry Section of Medical School and Ionian Department of Law School) collaborates with the Dundrum Centre for Forensic Excellence, Ireland, with the Elysium Healthcare International of London, the Italian Society for Psychotherapy and Forensic Rehabilitation (SIPRiFo), and Network MAUL to present the 2nd edition of the International Summer School of Forensic Psychiatry in Taranto.

The Summer School will provide teaching, tutorials and mentoring on site and in person. Participants will be selected from applicants if they can show occurrent involvement in clinical or translational research in forensic psychiatry at early career stage, or if they have undertaken higher training or been newly appointed as a consultant.

This Summer School also aims to provide an opportunity for scientific study, training and discussion for forensic psychiatrists, forensic psychologists, health and social health professionals working in forensic contexts and jurists from various European Countries.

English will be the main language of each session, but Italian and other languages will also be prominent.
